HEALTH EQUITY
Addressing Health Equity in the Hospital Board Room
By Priya Bathija
COVID-19 has made it clear that addressing health equity is necessary to improve health and save lives, and hospital and health system trustees need to lead and collaborate in these efforts.

LEVERAGING TECHNOLOGY
The Socially Distant Board Room: Maximizing Virtual Governance
By Laura Orr
In a time when strong leadership is paramount, health care boards must be intentional and creative to stay informed and engaged, while adopting virtual meeting platforms and adapting practices to maintain effective governance.

HEALTH EQUITY
The Board's Role in Advancing Healthier, More Equitable Communities
By Anne Rooney and Barbara Lorsbach
Hospital and health system board members play a critical role in prioritizing, understanding and collaborating to improve health equity.

PODCAST
Tackling Health Equity: A Two-Part Podcast for Trustees
Maria Hernandez, Ph.D., president and COO of Impact4Health, and Karma Bass, senior principal at Via Healthcare Consulting discuss how hospital and health system boards across the country are taking steps to make a difference in health equity.

POPULATION HEALTH
Building Hospital-Community Partnerships
By Erica M. Osborne and Cindy Fineran
Health care governing boards must consider how partnering can better address the social needs of community members.